

CHALLENGE SUCCESS

2017 SUMMER
LEADERSHIP SEMINAR

District Leaders

| School Leaders

July 14, 2017 • 8:30–4:00 p.m. • Stanford, CA

Join Challenge Success and a dynamic group of district and middle/high school leaders from across the country for a one-day leadership seminar. Through interactive presentations, workshops, and dialogue with peers, you will learn new strategies to improve student well-being and promote academic engagement in your school community.

www.challengesuccess.org/schools/leadership-seminar

Stanford | GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

SESSIONS

The Well-Balanced Student

Dr. Denise Pope

Participants will learn the latest research on student health and well-being in K-12 schools, identify sources of distress and disengagement at their school sites, and discuss root causes, symptoms, and concrete strategies for improving student health and engagement.

Making Homework Work

Dr. Denise Pope

Homework is a hot topic today. This workshop examines critical questions for educators to consider: What is the purpose of homework? How much homework is appropriate? What is the difference between rigor and load? In this workshop, you'll learn the latest research and best practices for creating effective homework assignments and policies.

Design Thinking Sprint

Jon Kleiman

In this interactive workshop, you will explore how the Design Thinking methodology can help solve the wicked problems you face. Learn how to conduct productive interviews, lead generative brainstorms, and prototype your way towards effective solutions.

Listening In: Protocols to Engage Community in School Change

Margaret Dunlap

It's hard to reform policies and practices without stakeholder buy-in. Explore strategies to garner support and solicit community voices, and learn specific tools to facilitate meaningful engagement among stakeholders such as Dialogue Night, Shadow Day, and a Student Fishbowl.

Participants will attend 3 of 4 sessions

SPEAKERS

Margaret Dunlap, M.A.

is the School Program Director for Challenge Success, providing support to school teams and coaches. Margaret has held roles in education leadership and program management for over 25 years, serving as a teacher and a Leadership Specialist in OUSD. She has coordinated National Board Certification, new teacher support, and professional development workshops.

Denise Pope, Ph.D.

is a Co-Founder of Challenge Success and a Senior Lecturer at the Stanford University Graduate School of Education. Dr. Pope lectures nationally on parenting techniques and teaching strategies to increase student health, engagement with learning, and integrity. She is lead author of Overloaded and Underprepared: Strategies for Stronger Schools and Healthy, Successful Kids.

Jon Kleiman, M.A.

is the Parent Education Director for Challenge Success, connecting parents with resources and practices to support the well-being of their children. Jon has worked in the education space in several capacities: creating curricula for a school for Rwandan women, designing trainings on human centered design at Google, and teaching design thinking courses to Stanford undergraduates.